THE biggest gathering of tall ships in South Australia in 25 years will take place in Port Adelaide in August.

SA Maritime Museum director Kevin Jones has persuaded the operators of three Dutch tall ships en route to the International Fleet Review in Sydney to stay over at Port Adelaide.

"They were planning to come for a day and we just said we would welcome them and put on a party for the crew and captains and they said maybe they could stay a bit longer," Mr Jones said.

The Dutch ships will be joined by the Maritime Museum's Falie and One & All to fill the Inner Harbour at Port Adelaide with sailing vessels of another era.

The three Dutch tall ships are Oosterschelde, Europa and Tecla.

The Oosterschelde, a 50-metre, three-masted topsail schooner of 400 tonnes, is the last of her kind, fully restored in the 1990s.

The ships will be open to the public on the weekend of August 31 and September 1, before sailing on to Sydney via Hobart.

The visit will enable Port Adelaide to relive its glory days as a busy tall ships port. Mr Jones said the SA Maritime Museum would stage a festival of maritime trades to go with the tall ships visit.

Today the port handles about 15 million tonnes of cargo each year.

The Tall Ships will arrive in Port Adelaide on August 28th and stay till September 1st before heading to Melbourne, Hobart, Sydney and then to Auckland in New Zealand.

South Australia's very own Tall Ships - the Falie and the One & All will join the trio at McLaren Wharf (next to the lighthouse) in Port Adelaide.
